Attachment B

1. In pursuance of the Reference, representatives of the Army, Navy, Air Force, JCS and CIA met on Wednesday, 6 April 1960, at PIC to review the requirements against the available photography and to determine what additional requirements might be serviced by the Navy.

2. In the course of the discussion, it was agreed that each agency would take such action as it deemed appropriate to obtain [REDACTED] 25X1 photography. For the most part, current requirements could not be met through that photography, it was judged, because it would not cover recent developments of interest. The Air Force and JCS had no specific requirements.

25X1 [REDACTED] 25X1A [REDACTED] agreed to assess, in cooperation with the Navy, the extent to which current DD/P requirements have already been covered (through reproduction of raw materials now in process), and to transmit to the Navy requirements believed not thus covered with an indication of priority and required timing. It is understood that the Navy's photographic effort in Cuba evolves principally from the field responsibilities of CINCLANT and these may need to take precedence over the new requirements received from PIC. CDR Harley D. Myles, ONI, noted that, as rapidly as feasible, the preliminary report on the Navy's photography is being produced and that he would arrange for dissemination of those reports to the services and CIA as the reports became available. He also noted that the original negatives are transmitted to and are held by Navy, PIC, at Suitland.
